Economy Drives Extended Service Hours for Local Businesses - Like Handyman Services

May 1, 2009

Many local businesses around Washington DC and Northern VA are adjusting their services and service hours to compensate for more challenging economic conditions, to improve the convenience factor and payment options for their customers, and to take advantage of additional help available outside of normal business hours.

Handyman Matters of Alexandria, for example, unlike most of its competitors, now offers Alexandria VA handyman services after typical business hours - this includes through 8PM weeknights and Saturday appointments. These home repair, renovation and fix-it service hours can be extremely helpful to commuters and customers faced with additional work responsibilities or longer lists of home maintenance projects.

Additionally, Handyman Matters of Alexandria offers pricing in 15 minute increments, and services for jobs as small as 1 hour - perfect for tackling a very wide variety of routine or emergency repairs, installations, painting, yard work, and other specialized home repair tasks. Jobs that tend to accumulate and never get the attention they deserve, preserving your most valuable investment - your home.

Now's the time to look and ask for these extended, special and differentiated service and pricing options from all of your DC metro area home maintenance and service providers, from northern virginia energy-efficient replacement window installations, to Loudoun insurance, Fairfax home renovations and even your Prince William homes, land, and commercial real estate agent.

(Handyman Matters service specials like these can also be obtained through their Piedmont, VA Handyman Matters office, serving Western Loudoun, Prince William, and other West-Central Virginia counties).
