

Remodeled Bathrooms Delight Client

When Vera Diller wanted a reliable remodeler last fall, she followed a realtor's recommendation and called on Handyman Matters (HMM). Ed Crawford, lead craftsman with HMM, came to Vera's home, listened to her ideas and offered suggestions. Then he went to work redoing two old, outdated bathrooms, installing new fixtures, ceilings and flooring.

The bath with the shower had to be totally gutted. Ed installed a custom-made shower pan and wall surround utilizing the extra space provided by the wall removal. The fixtures were from the The Onyx Collection, manufactured here in Kansas.

"That's a big plus for us," says HMM owner Phil Davis. "Not only does it decrease our carbon footprint, but The Onyx Collection is truly a superior product in comparison to many others we've come across. Their custom showers are guaranteed for life and extremely beautiful."

Vera was thrilled with Ed and his handiwork. "He was amazing to watch!" she says. "I was so impressed with his work!"

In the other bathroom, HMM worked with Bathcrest to refinish the cast iron tub, saving the cost of replacement. In both baths, Ed installed wainscoting, chair rails, corner molding, crown molding and new vinyl flooring. Ceilings were textured and painted.

Ed also built a custom vanity to fit a narrow non-standard space and had a custom Onyx top made with a side shelf that extended over the top of the toilet for extra counter space.

Tying into the aged plumbing was a challenge but Ed was up to the task. "I felt sorry for the old galvanized piping he had to deal with," Vera says. "It would break apart in his hands!"

Vera was so pleased with the results of the remodeling project that she asked HMM to return and update her kitchen with laminate flooring and a new ceiling. "Ed did a great job, he really did," Vera says. "I could not find anything wrong!"

"Be the next HMM success story, call for your bathroom remodel today."
